State Republican Convention Held in Arkansas Tuesday

The Prohibition Question Should Be Submitted to Voters Leaders Declare

TELLIER IS SPEAKER

Full Payment of Foreign Debts to the United States Urged

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—A proposal that the Democratic and Republican parties "unite upon a common plank for their respective platforms and agreeing that the prohibition question shall be submitted in legal form to the voters of the whole country," was endorsed by J. A. Tellier, temporary chairman in the keynote speech at the state Republican convention, Tuesday.

"This method ought to be acceptable alike to proponents and to the objectors for the paramount question is not temperance or intemperance, but enforcement of the law or unbridled racketeering, which is asserting itself over the law he declared."

Tellier, Little Rock attorney, declared for a full payment of foreign debts to the United States and for curtailment of the activities of the Federal Government so as to reduce tax burdens of the country and for an election law in Arkansas to give the Republican a "square deal in the elections."

Death of Author Remains Mystery

But Flying Couple Will Not Be Called Before Grand Jury

MIAMI, Fla.—(P)—Mrs. Jessie Keith Miller and her flying partner, Capt. W. N. Lancaster, apparently were relieved Monday from possibility of a grand jury investigation of the mysterious death of Haden Clarke, 26, young author and fiancé of the Australian aviatrix, at her home here.

State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne examined them further Monday but said he saw no reason why the grand jury would be interested. Mrs. Keith-Miller appeared voluntarily at Hawthorne's office and submitted to further questioning as the prosecutor sought to clear up points that have blocked his attempts to determine whether Clarke took his life or was killed.

He also brought literature, that he said was circulated forecasting bull markets.

He said that Richard Whitney, President of the New York Stock Exchange knew of the irregularities.

Dallas Pair Are Indicted for Murder

Witnesses Kept Under Guard as They Fear Gang Action

DALLAS, Tex.—(P)—Acting speedily through fear that state witnesses might be intimidated, the county grand jury Monday returned murder indictments against Frank (Red) Callan and R. S. (Sam) Murray for the killing of King Watson, asserted "bouncer," at a resort near Ranchman's dam the night of April 17.

The true bills were returned shortly after Mrs. Harry Goodman, 29, wife of the resort operator, appeared before the jury and related her version of events leading to the shooting. Mrs. Goodman spent the week-end in the women's ward at the county jail at her own request. She told officers her life had been threatened and she wanted to be safe until the two men had been indicted.

It was said that practically every division of the department will be affected. The clerical staff in the main offices at the capitol will be reduced by approximately 50 per cent. Engineering, Drafting and Bridge Divisions will be reduced to skeleton organizations.

$18,000 Lost in Fire at Bearden

More Serious Blaze Averted by Timely Arrival of Camden Firemen

BEARDEN.—The B. F. Buntyn store on the main street here was destroyed by fire Monday night with estimated loss of $18,000, half covered by insurance. The Buntyn store dealt in groceries and general merchandise, and carried a $12,000 stock, which was a total loss. The building was owned by J. W. Mitchell and was valued at $6,000, with $3,000 insurance.

It was located in the middle of a block of business houses and, it is believed the fire would have been much more serious had it not been for the Camden Fire Department, 17 miles away, which responded to calls for aid. The Camden pumper made the trip in less than 20 minutes.

The fire was discovered about 8:30 p. m. and was said to have been caused by defective electrical wiring in the ceiling. Passers-by noticed the flames and summoned aid.

No Further Time For Asking Loans

Applications to Office at Memphis Must Be Filed This Week

LITTLE ROCK.—Reports that there will be an extension of time for filing application for government crop production loans are without foundation. T. Roy Reid, assistant director in charge of the Agricultural Extension Service, said Monday.

"I have been advised definitely that applications will not be received at the Memphis regional office after midnight, April 30," Mr. Reid said. "This will not mean that application that have not been acted upon will not be approved."

Several members of the Extension Service organizations are assisting officials at Memphis in handling the loans. They probably will return to their regular duties in about two weeks.

3 Killed as Result of Extortion Plot

Gun Fight Over Money Demand Leaves Trio Fatally Shot

TAYLORVILLE, Ill.—(P)—Three men were shot and killed Monday night in a gun battle that started as the result of an extortion plot and ended in a 40-mile chase by state police.

The dead are Pete Larocca, 40, Vincenzo Manteller, 40, both of Springfield, and Henry Allegrucci, 58, of Langley, a village near here.

The shooting occurred at the home of Arthur Cioni in Langley. Cioni said that Larocca and Manteller had attempted to extort $1500 from him threatening him, his wife and his 10-year-old son with death if he did not pay.

Larocca had made previous visits to his home demanding the money, and Cioni said he came there Monday night with Manteller and another companion. Cioni said he had prevailed upon Allegrucci to assist him, and that Allegrucci was in the house when Larocca approached with a machine gun in his hands.

Cioni said Allegrucci fired twice with a shotgun through the door, and Larocca fell dead. Larocca's two companions shot and killed Allegrucci, Cioni said, and then fled. Manteller was wounded in the battle with Allegrucci.

Senate to Hear Speech by Heflin

Coalition Bolts Leaders in Decision to Give Alabama Floor

WASHINGTON.—(P)—By a roll call only decided by the last-second switch of a vote, former Senator J. Thomas Heflin Monday was granted the privilege of speaking once more in the Senate.

He will speak in behalf of his effort to unseat Senator John H. Bankhead, who beat him in 1920 after Heflin had been barred from the Democratic primary because he refused to support Al Smith for president. Under a two-hour limitation, Heflin is to take the floor Tuesday before crowded galleries.

Replendent in his long-tailed black coat and white waistcoat edged with black, Heflin sat in the back of the chamber as the Senate voted on a motion by Senator Trammell, Democrat, Florida, to grant him the floor.

At the end of a call of the roll, there were eight more votes against the motion than there were for it. The first 10 votes were against him. Then Heflin votes began pouring in. A call of absentees as they came into the chamber produced a rapid succession of ballots in favor of granting him the right to speak. When the last vote was called the result was a 32 to 32 tie.

The deadlock was broken and the issue decided by Senator Kean, Republican, who switched his vote from "nay" to "yea."

U. S. Asks Denial of Capone Appeal

Gangster's Attorneys Advance Arguments for Re-opening of Case

WASHINGTON.—(P)—The government Monday opposed Al Capone's last desperate attempt to find a legal escape from his 11-year prison sentence. The gang leader had asked the Supreme Court to review his conviction for evading income tax payments. Solicitor General Thacher filed a brief in reply saying Capone had no right to have his case reopened.

The court's answer to Capone's plea probably will come next Monday. Ralph Capone, Al's brother, and other members associated with him in profitable years of crime, failed to get reviews.

Capone contends that the three felony counts in his indictment are defective. His lawyers say they failed to tell the particular offense for which their client was tried; that under them he could be tried twice for the same offense and that the indictment failed to give him sufficient information to prepare his defense.

If the court refuses to review the case it means Capone's conviction has been upheld.

Senator Purkins To Make No Race

Reserves Right to Continue Giving Views on Political Affairs

LITTLE ROCK.—Any political campaigning which Senator DuVal L. Purkins of Warren may do this year will be in behalf of some one other than himself he said Monday while he was in Little Rock on legal business. Before and since his address at Warren Saturday on Arkansas political conditions, he had received numerous inquiries as to his plans for the summer, he said.

"This is a time when every man's motives are being questioned," Senator Purkins said. "Having been in state politics for eight years and having been disposed to express my views freely, many friends have thought that I expected to enter some campaign for state office."

"Of this I have no intention. While I shall not be a candidate myself, I serve the right to express my opinion with regard to public affairs and problems before the people."

Senator Purkins has been mentioned as a prospective candidate for governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general in recent weeks. He said Monday that he expects to devote the major part of his time and attention to his personal affairs and his law practice. He is completing his fourth year as a senator, and for four years before 1929 he was a member of the House of Representatives.

Idea To Combine Farm Work With Industry Discussed

Factory Workers Are Asked to Save $500 Yearly on Food Supply

IS AN EXPERIMENT

Auto Magnate Announces He Is Selling All Cars He Can Make

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Henry Ford, after a surprise visit to the White House, said that he had advocated to President Hoover, a plan combining farming and "industrial" work for factory workers could save $500 yearly by raising a part of their own food stuffs.

Ford said he had been experimenting with the Ford factory lands on his Dearborn farm.

He said he was not ready to announce his plan fully, but indicated that the idea would involve the large factories distributing their workers over farms on which, during a comparatively small part of the year they could raise enough foodstuffs to supply the needs of their families.

Ford also said he was selling all cars he could make.

Confesses Murder Committed in 1929

Mississippi County Farm Hand Says Conscience Troubles Him

ELDTHEVILLE.—Authorities Monday were seeking information on the confession of Roy Edward Smith, 25-year-old Mississippi county farm hand, who surrendered to Deputy Sheriff C. C. Bowen at Osceola Monday, confessing that he killed Fred Davis of Bruce, Miss., three years ago.

Smith told the officers he shot Davis to death following a quarrel over a girl, Miss Opal Ivy. The shooting occurred April 20, 1929, at a store owned by the girl's father. Smith said his conscience was troubling him and he wanted to get the crime off his mind.

Deputy Sheriff Hale Jackson said that confirmation of the crime had not been obtained from Mississippi authorities, but that he expected Calhoun county officers to call for Smith this week.

Everett Reid, Osceola cafe owner, who formerly lived in Calhoun county, was present when Smith was questioned, and said the man evidently was thoroughly acquainted with that section. Smith has been employed on the Ed Nicholson farm near Driver since January.

Robber Gets Life For Slaying Boy

Thug Admits Shooting Child During Grocery Store Hold-Up

DETROIT.—(P)—Theodore Liley, who pleaded guilty to the fatal shooting of Billy Reynolds, eight, during a grocery store holdup, was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor and solitary confinement Monday.

The sentence passed by Recorder Judge John A. Boyne, is the maximum penalty under the Michigan law for first degree murder.

The hold-up occurred Friday evening and the boy, shot through both lungs and the abdomen when he was willingly interrupted Liley and a companion, died Saturday afternoon. Frank Mohr, who admitted he was Liley's partner in the holdup, pleaded not guilty when arraigned Monday on a first degree murder charge.

"I was drunk; I was the only one who had a gun. The boy was shot, so I suppose I must have done it; that's all I know about it," Liley told Judge John A. Boyne.

The boy had gone to the grocery store in Grand River avenue to sell the proprietor, Garnet Ritchie, a magazine. Ritchie showed a warning to the child and as the latter screamed one of the two bandits fired two shots at him.

He died in a hospital 18 hours later.

Put the Money Where the Roads Are

An outraged public this spring is waking up to the fact that the State of Arkansas has all the improved roads, while the counties have all the maintenance money with no improved roads to maintain.

The situation is critical with regard to the state's gravel highways, which have degenerated into wash-board trails as rough as a corduroy road to a lumber camp.

Farmers are complaining of the condition of the Lewisville highway, and other state gravel roads which serve as arteries for the country surrounding Hope.

The situation is general. Last week-end we drove to Camden to attend the state Associated Press conference, and from Prescott southeast through Bluff City and Chidester, to Camden, we found 40 miles of once-fine gravel road broken and deteriorated beyond belief. Bridge-ends have begun to wash away, the road bed is rough and dangerous by reason of much washing from winter rains and insufficient money to pay for the blading operations that are necessary to keep a gravel road in condition.

Matters are about equally bad in the Hope and Camden highway districts, but at Chidester, in the Camden district, we found some evidence of maintenance work—and this led to a remarkable discovery.

The citizens of Chidester recently petitioned the district highway engineer at Camden for permission to hire one of his graders-men and pay for the gasoline necessary to operate the big machine over the Camden-Chidester road. The engineer consented. That's how Chidester got a little better road than its neighbors.

Think of it! Here is a state that has spent 100 million dollars for public roads that now have to be maintained by private funds!

This is a deplorable condition. It is a condition that cannot be explained by charges of graft and incompetence at Little Rock. Illegal stealing of money may hurt a program, but it is the unwise operations within the law that utterly destroy a program.

Arkansas is destroying her road program by the unwise policy of diverting gasoline tax funds from the state, which has roads and owes bonds, to the counties, which have neither roads nor bonds.

We have hammered away on this idea ever since passage of the Martineau road laws in 1927. For a time the legislature stood pat against the encroachments of the incompetent and avaricious men who too often fill the office of county judge in the various counties. But for the last four years the judges have had their way.

While the state was selling highway bonds the judges took 12 1/2 per cent of the proceeds. Even today, when further bond sales are impossible, the county judges are getting 1 cent of the 6-cent gasoline tax. It amounts to $17,000 a year in Hempstead county, and 1 1/4 million dollars in the entire state.

This is enough money to maintain the state's gravel highways.

The counties have always had their own 3-mill road tax, which in Hempstead also amounts to $17,000 a year. Hempstead is now getting $34,000 a year, relieved of the state roads, where $17,000 a year used to have to cover both local and state roads.

The counties have the money, and the state has the roads. We are in the paradoxical position of having well-graded dirt roads in every county, while the state's gravel roads have gone to pieces for lack of money.

This is nonsense.

As an emergency measure the county judges ought to be compelled to take over maintenance of the state gravel roads until the next session of the legislature.

Here is a suggestion: The counties can hire the graders-men and pay for the gasoline, while the state loans its grading machines free of charge.

It is only a make-shift program, for nobody trusts either the judgment or competence of the county judges as a whole to handle either construction or maintenance of improved highways. But just at present the judges by one trick or another at law seem to have all the available maintenance money—and to them should fall the emergency job.

Bus Regulation

The Interstate Commerce Commission seems to be moving wisely in recommending gradual formation of a federal code to govern interstate transportation by motor bus and truck.

As the commission remarks, this is a new field, and it is important that the government, in entering it, move slowly and feel its way from point to point. It is not quite plain, yet, just where the public interest chiefly lies in this matter, and precipitate action must be avoided.

But it is clear that some sort of regulation is needed. Interstate commerce is interstate commerce, whether it moves by bus or by train; if one variety needs governmental supervision, it seems obvious that the other variety needs it also.

"Early to Bed?" Bah!

LONDON—"Early to bed, early to rise, eat" is so much bosh, rot and poppycock. At least Sir Robert McAlpine, hale and hearty at 85, thinks so. He has slept late and had his breakfast in bed for the past thirty years. And while he believes in hard work, eight hours of it each day, he believes, is sufficient. Sir Robert eats three apples every morning and is practically a teetotaler.

Mysterious "205"

JOLIET, Ill.—Chas. M. Fish isn't superstitious or anything, but he sure is curious about the number "205." For several years Fish has lived at 205 Richmond Street, has had Joliet 205 as a phone number, 205 as a city auto license and 205-206 as a state car license.

sharply, "Get 'em outside." Denise screamed and the boy, Dum-Dum, pulled the wrestlers apart. A club attendant rushed up, with a scared white face and closed the doors on the dancers.

THEN suddenly they were all out beneath the stars, Susan shaking more with emotion than with cold and Ben holding his jaw and looking murderous.

"Take Bob away," Denise ordered. "He'll kill that fool." She glared at Ben. "If Daddy heard about this I'll be wrecked. I won't have a prayer!"

"Just a minute." That was Bob's odder sobber now. "I'm sorry, Mr. error." He put out his hand and his adversary but his look was reared at Susan. Ben, after an instant's hesitation, took the hand. The crowd melted together again, moved by a common impulse of relief. Denise was issuing voluble directions. Arnold and Sonia and Dum-Dum in that car. She would drive with Bob. She looked around Dunbar had melted into the shadows. And where was Susan?

The youth, Dum-Dum, lifted his eyebrows and put a hand under Denise's elbow.

"Where are those two?" Denise demanded, icily regal and clutching her white fur wrap around her slim figure. The boy shrugged. Denise stamped her foot and some one in the big car sounded a horn sharply in the night stillness.

"Let's move," Dum-Dum said easily. "I hear Bob's engine down the hill. They'll be trailing up."

There seemed nothing else to do. Denise, her head high, stepped in and raced the engine. They roared away.

Meanwhile Susan sat still and cold in the roadster's front seat. The man at her side cupped his hand over a cigaret. In the match's flare she could see his stern young face.

"How did I get here?" she asked. "I feel as if—I—, as if a butterfly had plucked me up."

"I was it," Bob Dunbar supplied easily. He seemed quite sober now and there was a steady glint in his eyes. "I kidnapped you. Now we're going to drive around a bit while I find out what this is all about."

Susan felt unaccountably happy. "I don't know what you mean," she told him.

"Yes, you do." His voice was grim. "I want to know if it's true—that you're engaged to this lad who just walked me."

"Who told you that?"

"I gave you one guess," said Bob Dunbar.

One of her admirers is BEN KAMPMAN, a moody young musician who asks her to marry him, she refuses. JACK WARDING, who works in the same office, asks Susan to go driving one night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIV

"WHISTLING in the dark, I'm only whistling in the dark." Susan slipped through the French door and stood shivering in the darkness. A wind from the west blew across the prairies and the stars shone with uncanny brightness over her head. It was quiet here. She could almost shut out completely that hateful tune, the swish-swish of feet, and the babble of voices. She felt a misery too deep for words. That was why the vastness of the night comforted her.

The events of the day marched before her eyes like the unrolling of a film. There was the dinner. The oval table with its lace and ruby glass, the exquisite food, the deft servants gliding in and out. Susan had scarcely tasted anything. From the moment when she had come down stairs wearing her frock of white lace to find Denise in Bob Dunbar's arms she had been miserable.

"This is what she asked me for," Susan told herself bitterly. "He's here and she wants me to know it!" Why such a course should give the girl any satisfaction Susan could not understand. The tall, fair young man had been her friend nothing more, and that only briefly. If Susan had imagined that some divine flash of understanding

Universal Host Breaks Up Party

Drunken Illinoisan Kills
One Man and Wounds
Two Others

COLLET, Ill.—A wedding anniversary celebration at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey ended in tragedy early Sunday when an uninvited guest, Fritz Whitney, 40, killed one man and wounded two others, then flying away from the house in their automobile after the shooting. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey planned a fest in the honor of an anniversary. Whitney had suffered a possible mental breakdown and internal injuries while his bloodshot eyes were drunk.

Guests at the party said that when Whitney became intoxicated, they brought him home and he was tried to take him home. Whitney was looking for an automobile in which to carry him away, the car had been left in the house and to a back room on the second floor. There he grabbed the gun of Henry Schelling, Joliet city policeman, resting on a table. Schelling, who had been drinking, dashed to the street again and shot Goyford Hawk in the heart, killing him instantly. Robert Hawk grabbed with his brother's slay fled to an alley, pursued by Randall Bailey, brother of the host. He was shot in the hip by Whitney, who then escaped.

Oregon Trapshot Holds Best Record in Country

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Figures compiled by the Amateur Trapshooting association show Frank M. Troeh of Portland as the greatest all-round trapshot in the United States.

Troeh has broken 97,492 targets out of 100,320 for an average of 97.18 since his first tournament competition in 1912. He topped the country's handicap shooters in 1930 with an average of 3212 on 3,500 targets and was second high in doubles with an average of 9169. He has annexed more than 500 prizes.

Cops Wax Angry

BOSTON.—"We're all in our places, with sunshiny faces" would have been an appropriate ditty for several Lynn, Mass., policemen to have rendered recently before roll call. They found they had used liquid floor wax instead of soap. It seemed that, in filling the liquid soap container, the janitor made a slight mistake.

PINCH of BLACK-DRAUGHT after meals

"I had three spells of indigestion, one after another," writes Mr. John M. Creps, 902 Charles Ave., N. Charlotte, N. C. "I suffered a lot of pain. My back ached and I had pains in my stomach frequently. It felt like my breath was cut off in my chest. I was bothered this way for about a year. A friend asked me to try Black-Draught. I began by taking a pinch of Black-Draught after each meal and found that I soon got relief. We keep Black-Draught all the time."
